He sent message to people begging them to be quiet and giving them the assurance that special term of court would be ordered at once to try the negroes. A sensational turn was given to the local campaign to-day, when, responding to the announced purpose of Sheriff Miles, one of the leaders of the Republican organization, to appoint 1,000 deputies for service to-morrow, Mayor Weaver issued a proclamation against what he designated a lawless usurpation of power, advised resistance to any attempt to exercise authority which the sheriff's deputies might make, and at the same time swore in 500 special policemen to safeguard the right of citizens in to-morrow's election. Subsequently Miles declared that he did not intend to appoint deputies. Nevertheless, there is ground for apprehension of serious trouble and possible bloodshed at the polis.

There has been no campaign in recent years in which so few reports and rumors of attempts at fraud were circulated during the week preceding the ejection. Superintendent of Elections Morgan has several hundred warrants for persons suspected of illegal registration, and these men will be arrested if they attempt to vote. Morgan's deputies will be on guard in all the lodging house districts and at points where they suspect that frauds may be attempted. But all the campaign managers of all parties agree that the election will be as free from fraud as any ever held in this city. The election of Jerome as district attorney is practically conceded by all parties.

Murphy Won't Forecast.

Tammany leader Murphy has departed from an old custom of the organization and refuses to give any advance esti-mate of the vote. He merely declares and refuses to give any advance commate of the vote. He merely declares that Mayor McClellan and the entire city, county and borough tickets will be cleeted in all boroughs, Mayor McClellan issued his last word on Sunday, in lan issued his last word on Sunday, in which he expressed absolute confidence of victory. The forecasters at the head-quarters of the several mayoralty condidates differ widely as to the vote to-morrow. At Tammany hall an "authoritative announcement" was not made, but men who were close to Murphy gave these figures to their friends:

The Hearst men had all sorts of estimates, the favorite one being fifty per cent. of the total vote for Hearst, with second, and McClellan third, Shearn, they conceded would not run as well as Hearst, but the worst that could happen to him, was to run second. Walle claiming his election, there were many regrets that Jerome had not been placed. on the ticket with Hearst to insure the election of the whole ticket. Bets Snaped Up.

The largest election betting crowd of the campaign swirled about in the Wall Street curb market this morning. The mayoralty contest engaged the bulk of attention. There was some early betting on McClellan at 21-2 to 1; but it was taken so enickly that before it was taken so quickly that o'clock the price shortened to 2 to 1.

There was some early betting at 10 to 7 and 10 to 6 but 1 to 2 was generally wanted by those who had Osborne money. The odds against Ivins were 6 to 1, with very little betting. November 6.—On the eve of election Ohio voters were still uncertain over the outcome, although the intensity of the campaigning and the large registration indicated a remarkably heavy vote and a possible landslide.
